NORWAY AND VICINITY.

Build His Own Boat.

Carl Foss, son of C. E. Foss, has about completed the building of a fine 26 foot motor boat which he is planning to use on the lake this summer. The motor which will be about two horse power has been ordered and is expected to arrive soon. The boat is built on the Brooks system and in appearance and workmanship is equal to boats put out by experienced boatmen. Carl has been working on the boat in spare time during the winter and has certainly done a very creditable job.

What Norway needs is houses, and it is hoped that hundreds or more will be built this summer. We hear of several who are planning to build.

The following is the program of the Festival chorus concert to be given at the Congregational church, Thursday evening, April 11. The concert will be a fine one and every seat in the house should be taken. Karl Lester Tower is director and accompanist and the chorus will be assisted by Llewellyn B. Cain, bass soloist and Ella Louise Hill, reader.

NUMBER 14.

Company D in Coming War Maneuvers.

One of the most interesting events that Company D has ever participated in will be the war maneuvers along the New England coast from the 1st to the 15th of July, in which Governor Cobb troops from the 1st to the 10th.

Part of these troops are to be auxiliary to the forts and it is presumed will help them. There is a strong effort being made by the Government to have into a regiment of the Maine turned into a regiment of heavy artillery, and the presumption is that owing to the location the 1st regiment will be selected if this is done.

The maneuvers will be most interesting from the fact that the war department is going to try the efficiency of the troops to protect the forts and cities from inland. Forces from the navy be landed ten or twelve miles away from the forts and cities and march them overland to attack them from the rear.

There will not be as much night work as in the maneuvers of Portland three years ago, as it was found impracticable to keep men going so hard, so the trip will be much easier and more instructive. In anticipation of these maneuvers the company is recruiting up and a few more good men will be taken in.

Company D's Shoot.

The shoot between two teams of the company with Lieut. Moses P. Stiles and Sergeant W. F. Marston as captains, was held at the Opera House, Monday evening. Sergt. Marston's team won the score being 547 to 534. There were to have been fifteen men to each team but owing to the bad weather some of the men were unable to attend and so there were only thirteen men on a side.

The attendance was small but some good shooting was done. Lieut. Stiles was the high man of the evening with a score of 48. Richard Stiles and Willie Leavitt acted as scorers. Following is the score:

Henry Wilson Cobb.

Henry Wilson Cobb died suddenly at his home in Portland Wednesday afternoon of pneumonia. Wednesday afternoon of last week at about 4 o'clock. He was born in Lovell, July 24, 1866, and graduated at Bridgton Academy.

When a young man he came to Norway and clerked in the dry goods store of M. M. Thayer, and it was while here he became acquainted with his future wife, Lizzie Mason, a well-known Norway girl, who was especially prominent in musical circles and in the Methodist society, of which church she was organist.

Soon after going to Portland, he accepted a position with the Emery-Waters house company, and for fourteen years has been a confidential member of the business staff and a trusted friend and adviser of employers and employees. He was a member of the Chestnut Street Methodist church, where he has been superintendent of the Sunday school, and a leader in the young people's society, always taking a prominent part in the church affairs.

Like all men of true character, Mr. Cobb's life shone brightest and best in his home, and the wife who is left alone is sorely bereaved. He is survived also by his father, J. P. Cobb, of Wilber, Vt.; two brothers, Dr. J. J. Cobb, of Berlin, N. H., and J. P. Cobb, Jr., of Burlington, Vt.; and two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Sherburne and Mrs. Clara Abbott, both of Wilber, Vt.

The funeral, Saturday afternoon, was conducted by the Rev. J. W. Magruder, pastor of the church. A profusion of flowers bore silent witness to the sympathy of friends. The interment was at Evergreen.

The report of the Norway Village Corporation gives total real estate valuation $801,203; personal property $200,053; total $991,403; polls taxed 611, rate $1.50, property tax $6 per $1000; amount raised $6,295.34; resources $2,058.45; liabilities $1,016.70; balance for street lighting $1,041.75; cost of fire department $2,501.46. There have been five fires during the year, fortunately without slight damage.

Judge William F. Jones of Norway, went to Boston Tuesday morning to attend the wedding of his sister, Mary, to James H. Jones, of Boston.

The wedding took place Wednesday. Mrs. William Jones, of honor, has sister-in-law as matron of honor. The bride was in a white gown. At the home of the bride's mother. After a brief wedding tour, Prof. and Mrs. Metcalfe will reside at 352 Commercial street, Boston.

VOLUME XXXVIII

Easter Observance.

Easter was well observed at the several churches, Sunday. The programs as changed last week were rendered with some changes.

At the Baptist church it was impossible to have the chorus as was expected owing to the illness of several members. Esther Tower, who was to sing in the choir and also sing a solo, was unable to attend. In place of the latter F. E. Tower sang a fine solo that was much appreciated. The exercises by the children were very good, also the readings by the older members. The quartet rendered several numbers in an excellent manner.

At the Universalist church the music and other exercises were fine, also in the evening a fine program was given to a large audience. The program was mostly readings and musical selections by the small folks, all taking their parts well. The solos by Carrie Tucker and Mrs. Myrtle Fifield were fine. Adelaide Shattuck and Margaret Baker gave excellent readings. The duet by Frank Moore and Mrs. Fifield was also an excellent number. Just as the pastor, Rev. J. S. Davis, was about to pronounce the benediction the lights suddenly burned out and left the large crowd to find their way to the street in darkness. Lights were brought in promptly.

The sunrise prayer meeting at the Methodist church proved very effective and the beginning of a great Easter day for the church. All the services were largely attended. The sermon by the Rev. C. A. Brooks, stirred many hearts to tears and joy. The music was by the double quartet, well rendered and much appreciated. This church is not only favored with a good pipe organ but with good singers. The music is well led by the leader, O. P. Brooks. The Easter concert in the evening was excellent.

The musical part of the services at the Congregational church are always well looked after by Mrs. H. L. Horne and her services Sunday were also appreciated to the rule. All the numbers were finely rendered. The singing of the new quartet composed of Howard Stevens' pupils was very good, and it is needless to say that of the older singers was up to their usual high standard. The attendance was large.

The order of services as announced last week were carried out. The solos, "Thy Redeemer Liveth" and "Easter Dawn," at the morning service by Miss Staples and Mrs. Sweeney were rendered with sweetness and expression. A large audience gathered at the concert at 4 o'clock. Mrs. H. L. Horne opened with a beautiful selection on the organ, which was followed by an anthem, "King of Glory," by a double quartet. The remainder of the musical program was carried out by the second quartet consisting of Grace Thibodeau, soprano; Annie Moore, alto; Frank Moore, tenor; William Horne, bass. Mrs. Horne also rendered a solo. Gladys Keene beautifully rendered a selection entitled "Resurrection," by Hanscom. The young people showed careful training by the organist and many good and encouraging words have been said of the young singers. The readings by Bessie Chase, Mildred Holmes, Josephine Stearns and Florence Rideout were appropriate and well rendered.

A Communication.

To the voters of Norway Village Corporation:—Understanding that there is to be opposition to my candidacy as member of the Board of Assessors, at the election to be held soon, I wish to state that in case a majority of said voters wish to retire and expect entire subservience on the part of the incoming board, to the behests of the Norway Water Company it would be much more to my satisfaction to have them vote for some other candidate, inasmuch as I will never agree to make an unconditional contract with said company for a water supply for hydrant use.

D. S. SANBORN.

Norway, April 3, 1907.

John A. Ordway.

John A. Ordway of Boston passed away early Wednesday morning, March 27th. He had been confined to the hospital for the past four years. He was a terrible sufferer, attended by nurses night and day, but he was a brave and cheerful man. All his living children were with him at the last, which came peacefully after three days of unconsciousness.

Mr. Ordway was the son of Amos Jr., and Elizabeth Thompson Ordway. In 1839 he went to New York and worked at carpentering. Not liking the business, in 1840 he went to Boston and after a year his uncle went into trade in Norway and he came here as his clerk and assistant postmaster and afterwards went to Boston and obtained a situation in a wholesale dry goods store. Later he went into business for himself and was most successful, and was prominent in the respect in dry goods circles. He was one of the first presidents of the Boston Merchants' Association.

He retired from active business several years ago. He married Lottie W. Partridge, who died in 1880. Of this marriage, five children were born: Elizabeth T. Ordway of Boston, Mrs. John S. Marston of Hartford, Conn., John A. Ordway, Jr., and William P. Ordway of Boston, and George T. Ordway of Portland.

He lived in St. Andrews, N. B., until about nine years old, then went to Norway.

His grandfather, Amos Ordway, and his uncles, George James Ordway and Sewall G. Ordway, are all buried in Rustfield cemetery and always cherished the graves of the ancestors and looked out of all the local news whenever he talked to one who had been in the town. His brother, George D. T. Ordway, is still living in Boston, aged 83 years.

Clark-Urban Company To Be at Norway.

It is evident that standing room will be at a premium next Thursday night, when the Clark-Urban Co. will open their big night engagement at the Opera House, presenting "A Web of Fate," given with a large amount of special scenery for the opening bill, and should pack the theatre to the doors.

The play is a comedy that captivates the imagination of the audience from the first and holds them with increasing power to the end. Miss Pauline Hammond will be seen in the leading role in "A Web of Fate" and is fitted to perfection to the part. There is suggestion of the great actress, Mrs. Fiske, in her work. It is supported by a capable company of artists, both dramatic and comic.

Five great specialties at every performance. For Thursday night any lady can secure best reserved seat for 15 c. If secured before limit on same expires. Seats on sale at Stone's. Prices 10, 20, 30 cents. Special matinee Saturday.

The heavy snow storm, Monday evening, did not prevent a large attendance at the O. G. T. meeting and seven members were conducted by a very impressive manner by the Chief Templar, and others who desire to become charter members are requested to come in next Monday evening, as after that the charter will be closed.

A letter received from J. W. Warren, Norfolk, Va., who was here several weeks ago and hired quite a number of men to work for the Norfolk Traction Co., states that there have been no strikes, riots, murders or trouble of any kind. The greater part of the men are giving entire satisfaction. This goes to show that there was no truth in the numerous stories which have been circulated.

The King of Siam is coming to this country and E. H. Strobel, who in years past has spent his vacation as the guest of Dr. Ghering of Bethel, will be the acting King in the ruler's absence. Freeland Howe of this town, a few years since entertained Dr. Ghering and Mr. Strobel at Cedar Lodge and they were introduced to bass fishing and the benefits of life insurance. Mr. Howe wrote a policy of $30,000.00 on the life of Mr. Ghering. If the real King visits Bethel and Norway this summer Mr. Howe expects to write a half million insurance on his life and interest him in bass and trout fishing.

SOUTH PARIS.

Brown-Stuart.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stuart, 35 High street, Wednesday afternoon, occurred a very pretty home wedding, when their daughter, Grace May Stuart, was united in marriage to Fred Scott Brown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Wallace Ghesbro, pastor of the Baptist church. The ceremony was performed in the music room, which was prettily decorated with smilax and cut flowers. Immediate relatives of the family were present. The bride was crowned in white tulle and carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Leona De Albra Stuart, as maid of honor in light blue silk, and two bridesmaids, Ruth Whitman of Mount Holyoke, Mass., and Nellie Quinn of Amesbury, Mass. Laura Smith of Lewiston officiated as pianist. The best man was Carl Brown, brother of the groom.

A reception was held after the ceremony, James Tubbs and Elton Brown acting as ushers. Refreshments were served by the "We Are Seven" club of which the bride was a popular member.

Many valuable presents were received by the young couple including china, cut glass and several good sized checks. One present to the bride from Vancouver was a Japanese belt with buckles of silver with the words, "Good Luck and Happiness" in Japanese characters.

Mrs. Brown is one of the best known and most popular ladies of South Paris. She received her education in the schools of Paris, at Hebron Academy and Miss Wheelock's private school in Boston, after which she taught in Marblehead until last January. Mr. Brown is the son of Alvin Brown of Norway, a graduate of Norway high school, class of '90. Formerly he was a clerk in Thomas Smiley's dry goods store, Norway, but is now manager of the Smiley store in Portland.

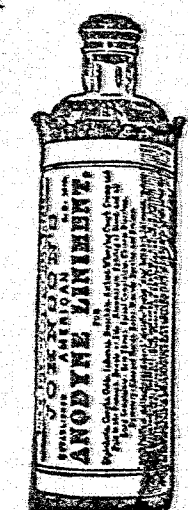

The young couple will reside at 10 Boyd Place, Portland.

Hair
Tonic

THOS. J. BROOKS

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 24, 1905.

Gentlemen:

Allow me to say a word endorsing the remarkable merits of your Rexall "93" Hair Tonic.

My attention was called to this remedy by one of your clerks, who guaranteed beyond question it would stop my hair falling out, and also put my scalp in healthy condition for new hair.

I hand you photograph before starting to use it, which shows me to be nearly bald. After using two bottles I saw decided improvement, so continued its use. I have used seven 50-cent bottles, and have a heavier suit of hair than I ever had in my life.

I also enclose photograph taken a few weeks ago, showing the wonderful results in a short time.

I take great pleasure in making this statement to you, gentlemen, endorsing your great Rexall "93" Hair Tonic, and will answer promptly all inquiries regarding it.

I am at present special agent of the Western and Southern Insurance Company, 21-22 Courier-Journal Office Building, this city.

Very respectfully,

Thos. J. Brooks

This is a remarkable case—an exception to the rule. We do not promise that "93" will grow hair on every bald head—but we do guarantee, because we know, that it will stop falling hair, cure dandruff, and give satisfaction to anyone needing a hair dressing. If it doesn't, bring back the bottle, and we'll refund the 50 cents you pay for it.

The Sokoki Trail.

Historian Sylvester Adds "Another to His Delightful Series of Maine Coast Romances."

To be filled with the love of the mysterious and of the deliver into the realms of the imagination, yet to be always held in leash by the limitations of the actual and the cold facts that permit only the most circumspect flights of fancy, is a combination that few historians seem to possess, and perhaps for that very reason they are so frequently dry and dusty in their manner of telling, of those things that must have a record if the people would know their own pedigree. Herbert Milton Sylvester, author and illustrator of the very delightful series known under the general name of "Maine Coast Romances," possesses this combination to a remarkable degree, and perhaps no writer of recent years—if indeed he has an equal—brings to his work such an overflowing fund of humor and imagination as does he, yet he is enabled by his keen sense of truth to hold in leash that imagination that threatens at times to fairly run away with him—but never does.

In this third volume of the series the very title breathes of that spirit of adventure which has ever drawn the professional man from his counting room and the farmer's boy from his hated task. "The Sokoki Trail" implies all the delights of the wood.

"If one were to search for the beginning of the Sokoki trail, to follow it down the unknown and unknowable span of years to its blotting out along the sands of Lovewell's pond, one would go to the origin of the great Abenaki family whose sagacity for unnumbered centuries, uprising above the shag of the wilderness woods of this novus terra of Gomez, blew away one ill-starred night to seaward, to lightly kiss the dun sails of Cabot, perhaps, but surely those of Cortez, Da Mont, Weymouth, and Capt. John Smith; for these latter met the aborigine, to whom these pale-faced adventurers and their white-winged ships were but forerunners of greater things." Surely such a mixture of the historic with the imaginative sense appeals to one strongly.

Mr. Sylvester is doing a work for the history of the Maine coast that may, it is to be hoped, be extended into the more inland portions of the State, for surely there are romances as deep and as fascinating, even though perhaps less firmly engraven upon the pages of history, inland as there are on the coast, rich though the latter is in these resources. Like its predecessors in the series, this volume is illustrated by the pen of this gifted native of the Pine Tree State, and it is plain to be seen that his very heart has gone into the work from start to finish.

"The Sokoki Trail," third in series of five volumes under general title "Maine Coast Romance," by Herbert M. Sylvester, R. F. D. Harrison, Me. Author's edition limited to 1000 copies printed from the type in cloth and gold.

OXFORD.

Cultivate the Voice in the Public Schools.

I know that as a rule public school teachers have their hands full and about all they can attend to during school hours, but there is one thing not described in the text books.

The great aim of all teaching being to make the pupil an efficient, cultivated and willing contributor to the welfare of the State, should ever be kept in mind and nothing which will contribute to this end should be regarded as trivial. I desire to speak of a point at which all teachers can be of service, but which many never seem to think of or to consider of any moment or to belong to their province. It is the matter of voice culture.

The human voice is as susceptible to improvement as the hand, the eye, the brain or any other organ. There is a right way and a wrong way to use it. There are nerves and muscles in the vocal organs that must be trained and developed to be the greatest service there is to the teacher and proper way of breathing while talking.

It is not right nor pleasant to have one stop while reading or talking to take in a long breath and then bellow forth again like a volcano, neither is it proper to chop your words and swallow them while breathing. There are tones which should be suppressed and others which should be cultivated.

What is more pleasing than a soft, low, melodious voice of good variety and adapted to a wide range of expression of thought and emotion. What is more painful or jarring on one's nerves than loud, harsh or nasal tones, either in reading or conversation.

For the sake of the teacher, constantly subjected to nerve strain, and for the other pupils, obliged to study in the same room where others are reciting and who must make a place for him after graduation, let the wise teacher spend a little extra time with the pupil who screams every time he speaks or who drones when he reads or who commits any other of the hundred and one errors that show themselves so commonly in the phonics of the public school room.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

Will Coolidge, our village blacksmith, has been very sick with erysipelas in his face.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Wiggin, who have spent the past five months with Mrs. Wiggin's mother, Mrs. Lydia Garey, have returned to their home in Sanford.

Emma Olive, wife of Joseph A. Fairbanks, died at her home at Locke Mills, in the town of Greenwood, Friday evening, March 15th. Aged 55 years. She was the youngest daughter of the late Stephen and Ruth (Cummings) Buck. Her husband, a daughter, Maude, wife of M. A. Lapham, and one son, Stanley G. Fairbanks, are left to mourn their loss, also a sister, Mrs. D. M. Needham, of Portland, besides several nephews and nieces. Although a sufferer for nearly three years she bore her lot with patience and fortitude, resolute herself to be at her mother's will. Rev. G. B. Linnaford of Rumford Falls, spoke words of comfort to the sorrowing relatives and friends.

The Bryant Pond obit, consisting of Mrs. Day, Mrs. Estlin, Mr. Whitman and Mr. Hill, sang beautiful and appropriate selections. The floral tributes were very beautiful, consisting of a large pillow (mother), 55 pinks denoting age and a wreath from village friends and the employees of the E. J. Tobberts Co. and out flowers from Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Grant, Locke Mills, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Barrett and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Buck, Gorham, N. H., Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Needham, Mr. and Mrs. B. Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buck, Portland. She was laid at rest in the Locke Mills cemetery.

WEST PARIS.

Finlanders Proving a Desirable Class of Immigrants.

Another quota of immigrants from Finland arrived here Saturday p. m. They came labeled, most of them, to Jack McKeen, West Paris, a Finn who has been here some 12 years, who acts as a certain per cent of their earnings, the knows of their coming and his place for them in the lumber camps, in the woods, which are largely made up of Fins.

They are proving to be a very desirable class of immigrants. Hardy, honest and industrious, willing to work at anything where they can earn an honest living and save a dollar for a rainy day.

Of the 247 more that have arrived here in the last 12 to 14 years but 13 have been intemperate in the use of intoxicating liquors.

They are taking up many of our supposed to be worn out and deserted farms and through their hard work and industry are fast becoming some of the best farmers in town.

Here is one instance. A young Finn and his wife bought on liberal terms with promises to pay, one of these deserted farms several years ago.

With close living and hard work, he has paid for the farm, mostly from lumber and wood on the farm.

From calves secured from neighboring farmers and their own raising they have now 11 milk cows, four oxen.

They have plowed up the old fields and sowed Hungarian grass seed to supply his hay crop until he got his fields to producing.

He has planted several hundred young apple trees and last year had seven acres of sweet corn under cultivation. His help on his farm he has secured from Finlanders by paying their passage to this country; they give him so many months' work which makes a fine investment for our young Finn farmers.

It is no uncommon sight to see Finn women and girls working in the corn and hay fields. The women are well and rugged and have but little use for doctors. The women, most of them, do the marketing and are sharp on trade as they make a very desirable class of customers for our traders.

Fleish homes are neat and tidy and they are excellent butter makers. For the last 12 or 14 years since the Finns have commenced immigrating here we have had no disimprovement of a considerable number of the young men and women supply our farmers with excellent help both upon the farms and in the house where the girls assist in the milking and attend to the dairying.

"Ranglely Resorts" is the title of a booklet issued by the Portland & Rumford Falls Ry. It contained two maps, 50 illustrations and lots of interesting reading with table of hotels, stage, steamboat connections and rate of round trip fares. It is the best booklet ever issued by the company and is well worth being kept for reference.

Poor Paint is Expensive

If one is rich enough to repaint his buildings every year for the pleasure of having a change of color scheme, the quality of the paint used may cut little figure. But if it is desirable to cut the painting bills down to the least amount possible per year, it is of the utmost importance that the paint be made of.

Father John's Medicine Builds you up

For Sale and Recommended by FRANK KIMBALL, Norway.

SOUTH WATERFORD. Farmers' Institute. A Farmers' Institute was held on March 27th, at the hall of Bear Mountain Grange. A large audience of farmers and their families attended all day, including visitors from neighboring towns.

Commissioners of Agriculture Gilman of Foxcroft opened the meeting at 10 o'clock, and directed the exercises during the day. His opening address was principally confined to the subject of the extermination of every farmer and lover of trees to use all possible vigilance in hunting out and destroying those enemies of our orchards and forests.

Mr. Gilman introduced E. D. Howe of Marlboro, Mass., Past Master of the State Grange, who detailed his experience and observations concerning the ravages of both these moths, but said the gypsy moth is ten times worse than the brown-tail. The brown-tail moth flies long distances aided by the wind, while the gypsy moth travels much in carriages and automobiles and lays many eggs, hiding in the rough bark of trees and in fences, stone walls, etc. The Mr. Howe forcibly enjoined upon all the duty of the State and every citizen for himself and his town to use his utmost endeavor to destroy these two terrible pests.

In the afternoon B. Walker McKee of Fryeburg, a progressive farmer and for years past connected with the Board of Agriculture, gave an instructive address on the feeding of dairy cows for milk and cream production, specifying the most valuable of the various foods used for promoting the health and milk producing qualities of dairy cows. Mr. Howe, besides his lecture on the subject of moths, also spoke on the importance of cleanliness in all departments of dairy business. Late in the afternoon John A. Roberts of Norway, noted for his success in farming and stock breeding, made a short address. Frank H. Meloon was in attendance as special representative of the Maine Farmer.

During the afternoon Commissioner Gilman made an interesting short address on success in dairying, during which he alluded in complimentary remarks to the remarkable record obtained by the Waterford creamery, owned by W. K. Hamlin and operated by Walter C. Noble.

At noon a sumptuous dinner for the crowd was served in the spacious banquet rooms of the Grange by the farmers' wives and daughters.

A very pleasing accompaniment to the general program was a selection of spirited grangers' songs, rendered by the Bear Mountain Grange choir, under the direction of Jennie Hamlin.

On Tuesday W. K. Hamlin suffered the amputation of one of his fingers of the left hand. It was called for by the failure of the same finger to heal after its recent injury by contact with a buzz-plaster.

Easter Sunday was duly observed at the hall of worship by an appropriate Brown Tail Moth Destruction.

Every apple tree should be carefully inspected and the nests gathered. It must be done in the next few weeks. Not only fruit trees but other trees must be looked over for the nests. The nests are found on wild cherry trees, willow bushes, elm, maple, oak and other trees.

See to it that the nests are gathered. T. L. Heath paid ten cents per nest for those found in his orchard on Pike's Hill. Several nests were found on a grand-son of Uncle Lemuel Gurney, brings a nest to this office that was gathered there.

The selectmen of Norway have sent postal cards to all owners of real estate, asking them to destroy the nests. Prof. E. F. Hitchings in a letter compliments the Norway selectmen for their interest and promptness in notifying the people and their endeavor to rid the town of the moths. Waterford and Greenwood are sending out similar notices. It is the duty of the municipal officers to see that the law for destroying moths is enforced.

This year's crop must be picked and let every land owner see to it that it is done.

Fourth Anniversary Ball.

Thursday evening at their hall Oxford Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle celebrated their fourth anniversary. A cold meat and salad supper was served to about 120 of the members, their ladies and invited friends. Following the supper the members of the Castle executed their drill in a very pleasing manner. Dancing was then in order. Music was furnished by Stearns' orchestra of three pieces. There were about 35 couples on the grand march which was led by Mr. and Mrs. George L. Curtis. Old and young entered into the dances with much spirit and the evening was immensely enjoyed by all.

It is rumored that a castle will be instituted at Waterford the last of April or first of May, at which the members of Oxford Castle are much pleased as the nearest castle at the present time is at Auburn.

The Reuben and the Cat.

Reuben is a long-haired specimen of the genus dog, the pet and pride of a well-known family in our village. Tenderly nurtured and cared for, he has known no trouble or sorrow except the fleas that inhabit and thrive in a healthy bow-wow, neither has a hand ever been laid on him except in love and affection. His greatest pleasure is to follow his mistress in her perambulations about the village, so the other day he was trailing in her wake as usual, enjoying the delightful sensation of being guarded and cherished. She entered one of the stores on Main street, and knowing that the owner possessed a large sized and pugnacious feline, of the Sir Thomas variety, concluded it wise to leave the meek and gentle Reuben outside. Not understanding the charity underlying this action Reuben whined and cried for admittance until the lady proprietor suggested that he be admitted.

"I'm afraid he'll get into a fuss with your cat," observed the shopper.

"Don't mind about the cat, let him come in," replied the shopkeeper.

So Reuben ambled in, and after paying his respects to his mistress, proceeded to examine the store. He had never yet made the acquaintance of a cat, and upon spying a ball of fur, he proceeded to investigate, but the knightly Thomas, the hero of innumerable encounters with all sorts of dogs, recognized nothing but an enemy, and with a quick jab, drove the business end of several claws into the tender nose of the trustful Reuben. With a wail of surprise and anguish he quickly retired, and was immediately removed by his owner to the outside of the shop.

Once outside, Reuben rubbed his nose and thought, and the more he rubbed and pondered the louder grew the craving for revenge. The inherent hatred of cats, that had long slumbered dormant, rose to the surface and all he needed was the opportunity to carry his purpose into effect. Once more he whinnied and begged admittance.

"Let him come in again," said the store-keeper. "He will keep away from my cat now, and even if he don't, and knock him over, he will be taught a lesson."

"It is too bad to keep him outside and if you will take the responsibility of any results that may happen I'll let him in again," answered the owner.

Being assured that everything would be all right, the door was opened and Reuben rushed in. No longer loving and fawning, but with a mind full of vengeance and a nose aching with pain, he made a rush for the object of his newly acquired hatred. Thomas saw him coming and rose to meet the attack, but it was too swift. In a flash, the store was full of growls, barks and bunches of fur, accompanied by heart rending yowls, as Reuben got in another good bite. Breaking away, Thomas fled, closely pursued by the transformed Reuben; over counters, behind jars, pots, pans and bottles they dashed, the fleeing feline just one mouthful ahead, and leaving in their wake broken dishes, overturned chairs and general destruction. Seeing no chance of escape, Thomas resolved to get out doors, and heading for a window, sprang straight at it. The plunge carried him through all right but he had not counted on the outside or storm window which stopped him in mid flight, and with the remnants of the broken pane, Thomas fell in a heap, exhausted, into the bottom of the narrow space between the two.

Reuben was prevented from following by the two women who had entered from their place of safety, and who promptly rushed him outside, once again. A neighbor was called in, who rescued the demoralized Thomas from his glass prison. As a result of the encounter Reuben looks upon all cats as legitimate prey, while Thomas has disappeared from sight.

Moral: A soft paw teaches love, but a dig in the nose raises the d— with a pet.

Capt. Robert P. Noyes.

Robert Prince Noyes, formerly of Gorham, but for the past six years a resident of the state of Washington, died March 10, at the age of 73 years.

Mr. Noyes was a native of Norway, the son of Bela Noyes of Norway and Honor Prince of New Gloucester, and was born in January, 1834. When a young man he went to work on the Grand Trunk as a fireman. He was finally promoted to be a locomotive driver, and from that position was called to Richmond, Que., to be master mechanic at that point, where he held the position many years.

Mr. Noyes was a Civil war veteran, being one of the first to enlist in Vermont. He enlisted in Company E, Vermont volunteers, as a private, his brother, the late Capt. Warren Noyes, being captain of the company. He was later promoted to be captain of Company S. At the close of the war he returned to the Grand Trunk. He was in the employ of this road 35 years.

Captain Noyes is survived by his wife, who lives in Portland, two daughters, Mrs. James P. Butler of Portland and Mrs. Fred B. Rideout of Haverhill, Mass., and two sons, George of Boston and Frank, with whom Captain Noyes was at the time of his death. He is also survived by one brother, George W. Noyes of Gorham, N. H., and one sister, Mrs. David Pratt of Portland.

Artemus Ward.

There are but comparatively few now who knew Artemus Ward, the greatest fun maker of this country ever had. He simply bubbled over with wit.

Here is a good story. He went to Portland and took a boat for Boston. A storm came up and the steamer did not leave the wharf. Ward went to sleep and was astonished when he woke in the morning to find himself still in Portland.

"I didn't exactly go," drawled Ward, "but I got in a state of ventriloquism. It is possible that this idea was finally worked up until it ended in the 'I can't was' of one of his articles referring to the Mormons.

Judge Ray of Westbrook knew Ward well but that was when they worked together in the same printing office, the humorist being of course much the senior of the future lawyer. He was even then witty and given to saying odd and out-of-the-way things and it may be said that he continued to say them until he woke up as Artemus Ward, the erratic showman, and found himself famous.

Irving P. Symonds has gone to South Poland to work in the stables of the Poland Spring Co. as veterinary.

The Lenten services at the Universalist church, Thursday and Friday evening, were well attended and very interesting. On Thursday evening, Rev. I. S. Macdonald of West Paris spoke and on Friday evening Rev. H. H. Hoyt of Hiram.

MEN ADMIRE

a pretty face, a good figure, but sooner or later learn that the healthy, happy, contented woman is most of all to be admired.

Women troubled with fainting spells, irregularities, nervous irritability, backache, the "blues," and those dreadful dragging sensations, cannot hope to be happy or popular, and advancement in either home, business or social life is impossible.

The cause of these troubles, however, yields quickly to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs. It acts at once upon the organ afflicted and the nerve centers, dispelling effects. No other medicine in the country has received such unqualified endorsement or has such a record of cures of female ills as has

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Emma Runtzler, of 631 State St., Schenectady, N. Y., writes: "For a long time I was troubled with a weakness which seemed to drain all my strength away. I had dull headaches, was nervous, irritable, and all worn out. Chancing to read one of your advertisements of a case similar to mine, I decided to try it and I cannot express my gratitude for the benefit received. I am entirely well and feel like a new person."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the most successful remedy for all forms of Female Complaints, Weak Back, Pains, Displacements, Inflammation and Obstructions, and is invaluable in preparing for childbirth and the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free and always helpful.

Young Men's Congress.

Although the attendance at the Young Men's Congress, Friday evening, was not large, a very interesting and profitable session was held. The following officers were elected:

Speaker—Frank Pike.
Vice Speaker—Ned Burnell.
Clerk—Horatio Hammond.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Lee W. Templeton.
Chaplain—Rev. B. S. Rideout.

After election of officers a very warm discussion was had on the child labor question. It was voted to hold a banquet some time before the Congress adjourns for the summer vacation and Ralph I. Trask, L. Fred Pike and Rev. B. S. Rideout were appointed a committee to make the necessary arrangements. On account of the high school prize speaking this Friday evening it is doubtful if any business of importance will be conducted this week.

Mrs. Mary A. Jenkins went to Mineral Point, Wis., to visit her mother, Mrs. Mary Bartle, who is very sick.

FRYEBURG.

Young at 87.

As sprightly as though she were but "sweet sixteen," Dr. Elizabeth Gordon Perry danced, Saturday evening at the celebration of 87th birthday, that took place at Luther S. Roberts at Portland. Dr. Perry was born in Fryeburg, being the daughter of Capt. Philip Farthing and Sarah W. Gordon. Her father lived to the ripe old age of 98. Dr. Perry's husband, Norman W. Perry, was a native of Vermont, died several years ago.

She has been a physician for 25 years belonging to the electric school, and graduated from two colleges in New York, where she lived for more than 50 years. She has practiced in that city and met with good success in her profession. When asked what kept her looking so young Dr. Perry replied: "A clear conscience, and being jolly. There is nothing like being jolly." And she is jolly if ever mortal was. Dr. Perry retired several years ago, "The Lament of My Father," which was given with fine effect, was composed by the doctor, and referred to a young girl whom she had known in Vermont and who died under particularly sad circumstances.

She was the recipient of many flowers and other remembrances.
